

Vanderbilt Divinity Library
Theology Bibliography (concise)
Fall 2002

Introduction

This selective bibliography in Christian theology has been compiled for the graduate students of both Divinity School and the Graduate Department of Religion. It is meant not to offer an exhaustive research bibliography but to provide an orientation to the current state of research/scholarship and to aid further study in the discipline. Four categories are used to classify the material: 1) general reference (dictionaries and encyclopedias); 2) journals; 3) thematic bibliography; and 4) general titles in contemporary theology. [Available as a separate document at:

<http://divinity.library.vanderbilt.edu/lib/bibliographies/theologygeneral2002.pdf> ]

The category 3 has been separated from the category 4 in order to aid those who wish to approach the discipline with a particular interest in an area or areas (God, Christ, the human being etc.) of the traditional doctrinal or "systematic" framework. The category 4 is much more extensive and wide-ranging, encompassing many contemporary theological trends and movements that are often resistant to the traditional "systematic" treatment. Only substantial monographs or edited collections of essays are included. There are no references to journal articles or individual essays of edited collections. This bibliography is a work in progress. Your suggestions are welcome to make this more comprehensive and helpful. Please send any comments to Hyo-Dong Lee (lee@library.vanderbilt.edu).

For general reference and journals, an existing on-site bibliography has been updated and edited by Hyo-Dong Lee. The thematic bibliography has been compiled and edited also by Hyo-Dong Lee. A major portion of the general titles section has been compiled by Minnette Watkins/updated and edited by Hyo-Dong Lee.
